

traditional cs:

but now: data is fmri scan, task is to determine probability of Alzheimers
We don't know how to write the program ...

machine learning:

use training data and output to generate program,
which then generates output for test data.